Realty Raise partnered with RocketBuild to design and develop their progressive web application that connects investors with commercial real estate development projects. The progressive web application makes it easy for potential investors to filter, research, and invest in projects. Along with launching the app, they needed a dedicated website to market their app.

The website clearly makes the case for inviting investors to sign-up and start using the app. It highlights the types of projects, ways to get involved, and the unique value of becoming a user.
